

Scholarly Open Access

Critical analysis of scholarly open-access publishing

Hijacked Journals

Sometimes someone will create a counterfeit website that pretends to be the website of a legitimate scholarly journal. The website creators then solicit manuscript submissions for the hijacked version of the journal, pocketing the money. In some cases the legitimate versions of the journals are only published in print form and they may not have websites.

In the table below, the hijacked journal is listed in the left column; the corresponding authentic version of the journal is on the right. In cases where no website can be found for the original journal, a link is made to a bibliographic record for the journal.

Open access update May 2014 | Australian Open Access Support Group says:May 28, 2014 at 8:59 PM

[...] This is a new predatory scam where someone will create a counterfeit website that pretends to be the website of a legitimate scholarly journal. The website creators then solicit manuscript submissions for the hijacked version of the journal, pocketing the money. In some cases the legitimate versions of the journals are only published in print form and they may not have websites. Jeffrey Beall now has a new list- Hijacked Journals [...]

Dear Jeffrey, I've read the article of Dr. Jalalian and I don't agree with one of the warnings he includes in his "to do/not to do" list to guide authors. He says that authors should ignore all call for papers emailed directly to them. Well, in the past 8 years, I've been the editor of a couple of journals in Latin America and I must say that many journals of the region do that same thing, precisely, over and over. They write directly to researchers and professors in order to ask them for a paper or to invite them to help to spread the call among other colleagues... at least it's the way many Latin American journal editors work as many of our journals are not as well-known as the English speaking journals (as you should know, in the last few years some Latin American journals have started to be included in JCR or Scopus, but most of them are still in the bottom of these indexes because of their IFs).

Editors here go after papers, especially if their journals are still not very strong and if they're trying to make a good job and a good peer-review process (sometimes to get 7-10 papers approved to publish an issue, you should get at least 30, 40 or more). The big difference, and that's what Dr. Jalalian misses to emphasize, is that authors should make a distinction or look carefully to the journals that ask them directly to submit a paper and then send a bill when the paper gets easily approved (the timeline of the peer review is also a key issue; if you make it right it can take several months). The Latin American journals that I'm referring to here do not charge a cent for publishing. They're completely supported by universities.

Peter Raeth says:July 15, 2014 at 11:43 AM

Being invited at a personal level to submit a paper is an honor. However, I am quite put off by mass-mailed nagging. This is nothing more than spam. I do not take it to be from a legitimate publisher.

herr doktor bimler says:July 20, 2014 at 9:26 PM

"Research Technology Management" is a new addition to the list, isn't it? Hilariously, the "Meet Our People" section and half the Archived Articles links are still filled with Lorem Ipsum:

Vestibulum neque magna, imperdiet at ipsum eu, auctor tristique massa. Donec conoallis diam nec...

Didn't you used to have Mitteilungen Klosterneuburg on the list?

Jeffrey Beall says:July 21, 2014 at 4:25 AM

<http://www.kasmerajournal.com/index.html>

Original indexed here:

http://www.scielo.org.ve/scielo.php?script=sci_serial&pid=0075-5222

I received a wave of spam from them in December. Alternating with spam from Jokull, Bothalia, Wulfenia, Ciencia ETV, Mitteilungen Klosterneuburg and Sylwan... adding to the suspicion that those journals at least have all been hijacked by the same people.

In further confirmation, the spam e-mails all include "de-subscribe" links to the same "Arena of Science" junk-publisher website.

Okay, now I think I understand. There is a journal on my standalone journals list entitled Magnt Research Report. However, this is not a predatory journal. Instead, it is a legitimate journal that has been hijacked.

The legitimate journal is chiefly a print journal rather than an online journal, and it is irregular. It does not have a strong web presence.

I will remove this title from my standalone journals list and put it in my hijacked journals list.

The title confused me. I thought "Magnt" was an abbreviation for "management." However, it really means "Museums & Art Galleries of the Northern Territory."

Is my understanding correct? Thank you, Lida, for all your help and patience.

[...] Czym są takie czasopisma? To po prostu „strony” podszywające się pod prawdziwe czasopisma – często pobierają opłatę za quasi-publikację. Oczywiście nie jest to żadna prawdziwa publikacja (zatem tych tekstów nie znajdziemy np. w Web of Science), ale nie przeszkadza to takim quasi-autorom chwalić się rzekomą publikacją w czasopiśmie z tzw. listy filadelfijskiej. Ponownie odsyłam do Bealla (zob. listę ukradzionych czasopism). [...]

Dear Dr. Beall,

I am writing from Ethiopia, and I am a lecturer in one of the governmental universities. Here at my uni there is a lot of confusion and controversy regarding reputability of so called predatory journals. I am wondering if u could take the time to comment on a letter from one of our officials.

Sincerely,

Zelalem Getnet

Dr. Beall, what about the International Journal of Political Science and Development?
p.s. it's published by or part of Academic Research Journals...or at least that's in the email address.

Jeffrey Beall says:
February 18, 2015 at 1:57 PM

Right, as you indicate, it's published by Academic Research Journals, and I have this publisher included on my list here. I recommend avoiding the journal and the others from this publisher.

Bryan Groves says:

pps. how about the Journal of Applied Security Research (Routledge / Taylor and Frances)?

Dear Jefferey

May I know the status of JOURNAL OF APPLIED ENVIRONMENTAL AND BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES. Is it a hijacked or fake?

Waiting for your early response.

Jeffrey Beall says:

March 10, 2015 at 4:48 AM

I think you are referring to the Journal of Applied Environmental and Biological Sciences (JAEBS). This journal is published by Textroad Journals. I have this publisher included on my list here.

Muhammad says:

March 10, 2015 at 8:20 AM

Dear Sir,

Thanks for your response, I know this journal is available on your list of predatory journals but it is absent in the list of hijacked or fake journal. My actual concern is that is this a hijacked one or a fake journal because it is available in the Master Journal List of Thomson Reuters under Zoological Record.

Regards

Jeffrey Beall says:

March 10, 2015 at 8:37 AM

I don't think it's a hijacked journal.

I think that there is another journal that has the same title. The other journal is included on the TR Master List here.

So, it's not a hijacking. It is only a publisher using the same journal title.

I can say that these papers have not been published in our journal as our journal only deals specifically with regulations for pharmaceutical companies and does not cover any of the topics in these papers from Iran. I don't know for sure. I am not able to confirm it is a hijacking.
Do you have any solid evidence that it is a case of hijacking?

Dear Jeffrey Beall ,
I think journal entitled "REVUE INTERNATIONALE DE PSYCHOLOGIE SOCIALE-INTERNATIONAL REVIEW OF SOCIALPSYCHOLOGY" With Quarterly ISSN: 0992-986X was hijacked.
I followed sent you the link of original and fake journal.
Original Journal:<http://www.pug.fr/collection/69/Revue%20internationale%20de%20psychologie%20sociale>
Hijacked Journal:<http://www.psychologyterms.com/>
Please check it and let me know.
With Best Regards
Edris Merufinia
